DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's request for reconsideration of the finality of the rejection of the last Office action is persuasive and, therefore, the finality of that action is withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 7,20,21,33,39,40,42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for instant methods comprising instant "compound A" disclosed in the Examples shown in the Specification, does not reasonably provide enablement for instant methods comprising all of the instantly claimed compounds. Note formula in instant claim 21 defines R1 broadly as hydrocarbon, amino group and heterocyclic group; X broadly as C, N, O, or S; and A broadly as 5-7 membered oxygen-containing rings. The number of substitution would result in thousand of compounds for the instant method. It would be burdensome to determine which compounds work and do not work in instant application. Therefore, it is necessary for Applicant to determine a subgenus of compounds that would be believable for instant method. Examiner suggests that compounds selected be closely related to instant experimental compound A since Applicant provides data for compound A. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. Because the functional groups on the core structure of instant formula are many and have different sizes, polarity and electronegativity, the activity of compounds of the formula would be questionable. The predictability in this art is high since a small change in a functional feature could result in a drastic change in activity and such a change can also result in an opposite effect or activity. To one of ordinary skill in the art, it would be a big job to determine the effect of all of the claimed structural changes. Because of this large burden (determination of which compounds would render desired results), Examiner would like to point out that Applicant would be entitled to a subgenus of what is being claimed. Examiner stresses that the subgenus created should be a group of related compounds based on the structure of the compound A exhibited in the Examples disclosed in the specification. Examiner stresses that the subgenus created should be a group of related compounds in terms of size, polarity and electronegativity. Size of a compound determines its ability to fit into the receptor site. Polarity and electronegativity determine binding interactions between the functionality of drug (compound) and the functionality of the drug receptor site. Both of these factors should be heavily considered in the election of a subgenus group of compounds for the instant invention.
